Ethnic Day ⚡

Being part of an INI and staying away from home, there's always an inherent feeling of missing out celebrations back home decked up in our favourite ethnic wear.

That's where the idea of 'Ethnic day' actually stemmed from. A day to flaunt one's favourite traditional attire, boast about one's culture and heritage, to witness the cultural diversity of India unfolding like a movie - altogether, a day for reminiscing the plethora of customs and festivities of our country.

This year ethnic day was conducted on July 16. The event was set in motion with a dazzling ramp walk by the audience and contestants, followed by a passionate competition for the title of 'Mx Ethnic day'.

All the contestants exhibited graceful performances that left judges awestruck. The performance incorporating all the dance forms of India stole the show. The amazing performance by the judges and a super enthusiastic audience was what made the event so fulfilling.

The night bid farewell by crowning Ravi Abhiram as Mx Ethnic Day and Rahul K as the first runner up. Lastly, the DJ gave a smashing conclusion to the night, filling the minds of the audience with a fervent longing for the next Ethnic Day to come.

ABMUN

Two years ago when 2018 batch was in the union, I heard the concept of a 'Model United Nations' for the very first time. I ventured into the programme as a volunteer, having not the slightest of clue of what is going on. Ah well! I guess it was pretty much similar for all of us back then but one thing we learned from the experience was the actual nature and thrill of a debating society!

The idea of holding an offline MUN for the first time in our campus had been brewing in all of us since the beginning. We were well into our tenure that the busy months of June and July finally arrived and with all of the sporting, academic, and cultural events happening on, an offline MUN sounded like a pipe dream. Alas, it was now or never for us, and under the guidance of team Farrago, we started off our preparations swiftly. With all of the late-night brainstorming sessions, rigorous planning, and diligent PR, we enrolled a staggering 120+ delegates for the event.

The debating jamboree got off to a grand start on July 22. Over the next two days, various delegates from all over the country discussed their views and opinions on topics ranging from health to politics and whatnot! Passionate individuals from a wide variety of backgrounds exchanging heated arguments, some cancelling the others, whereas others adding on to the values, and the modest demeanour of the sessions as a whole truly proved that our efforts were worth it!

From being clueless kids wondering about the nature of such an event to organising an entire offline MUN, it has been a journey of its own, with all the highs and lows definitely teaching us something to value for a long time! Hopefully, MUN will grow to become a thing in our college in the years to come! If so, then maybe we'll be remembered for taking this initiative and sowing the seeds for this to happen!
